We Dedicate . . .

Because he is one of the most outstanding personalities on the campus; because of his sound counsel and inspiring character; because he helped to bridge the gap between the old Bucknell and the new; we, the Class of 1940, dedicate our L'Agenda to George Benedict Lawson, retiring Professor of Philosophy. More to the University than a mere professor, Dr. Lawson is regarded as a sincere friend and stimulating inspiration by all who come in contact with him. Long after most college memories have faded, the visualization of the beloved figure of Dr. Lawson will remain to remind us of the real meaning of Bucknell life.

BUCKNELL

In this, the 50th edition of L'Agenda, it is the sincere desire of the editor and staff to picture Bucknell as it is today. Each phase of college life has been subjected to a photographic survey in the hope that, in this manner, the spirit and substance of Bucknell will be revealed. Therefore, we present L'Agenda of 1940 as a permanent record of life at Bucknell.

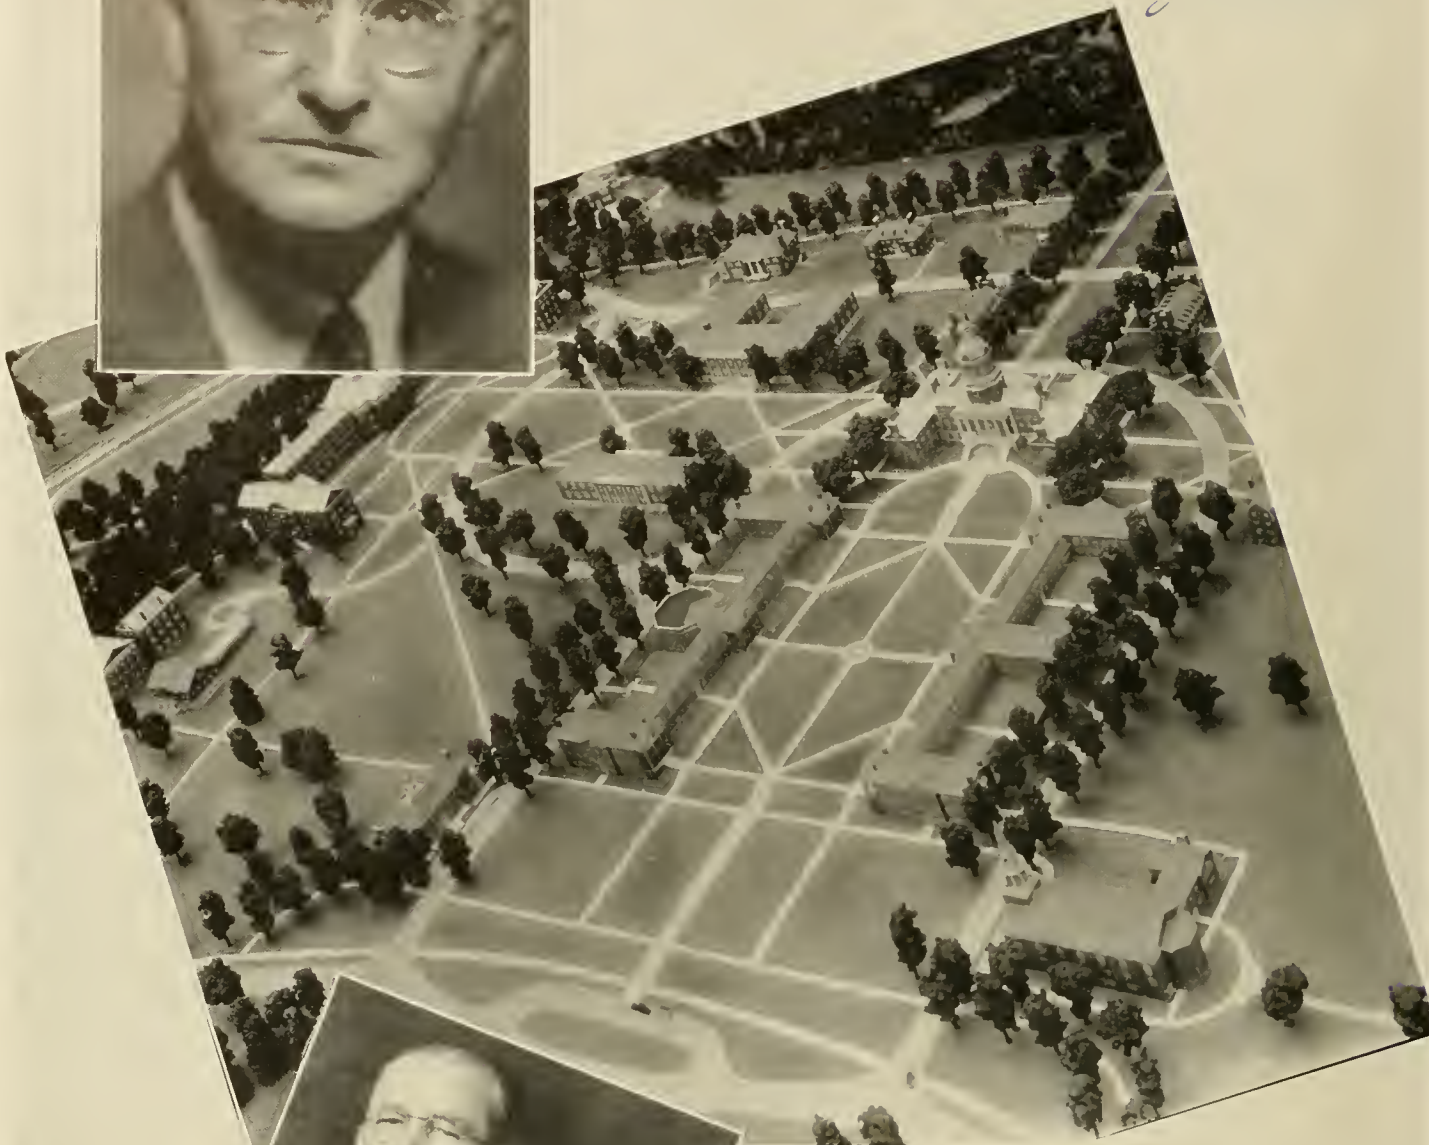

Harland A. Trax was formerly the Chief Accountant of the New York Telephone Company and Associated Companies of New York.

Faculty and Administration

Arnaud C. Marts, our commuting president, is the spirit of greater Bucknell.

Vice-president and Dean of the University, R. H. Rivenburg dictates a letter.

Dayton L. Ranck is treasurer and comptroller of Bucknell University.

With "Mickey" Dean Dyer relaxes for a moment from her duties as Dean of Women, professor of psychology and university hostess.

R. L. Sutherland, Dean of Men and sociology professor, explains to his class the result of a part of his research.

French Professor Calkins reads a French newspaper for relaxation.

F. A. Sprague, associate professor of romance languages, reads a Spanish magazine.

Professor Philip S. Harriman, head of the psychology department, corrects intelligence tests as part of his duty as director of freshman entrance examinations.

Dr. L. P. Fowle, University physician in charge of the men's and women's infirmaries, prepares to swab an irritated throat.

Miss Mary H. Hunt records students' marks.

B. W. Griffith, Graduate Manager of Athletics and French professor, prepares tickets to be sold for the boxing matches.

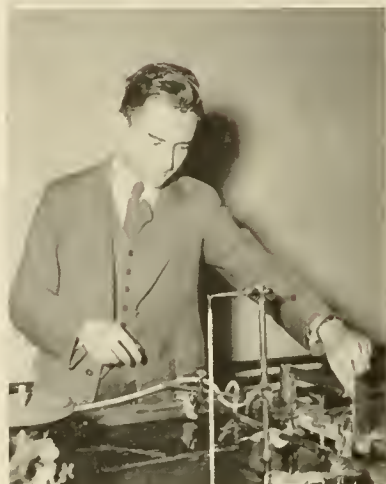

C. A. Godcharles, assistant professor of psychology, tests the time reaction of a stimulus.

English Professors Robbins and Coleman collaborated in compiling and arranging the material for Western World Literature, one of the most comprehensive anthologies of its kind.

Trennie Easley, Instructor of Business English and in charge of publicity, at her desk.

Chemistry Instructor Fagley weighs a chemical compound.

Homework for Professor Gogate consists in preparation for tomorrow's sociology class.

W. N. Lowry and W. H. Dauberman cooperate in testing sound equipment for the physics department

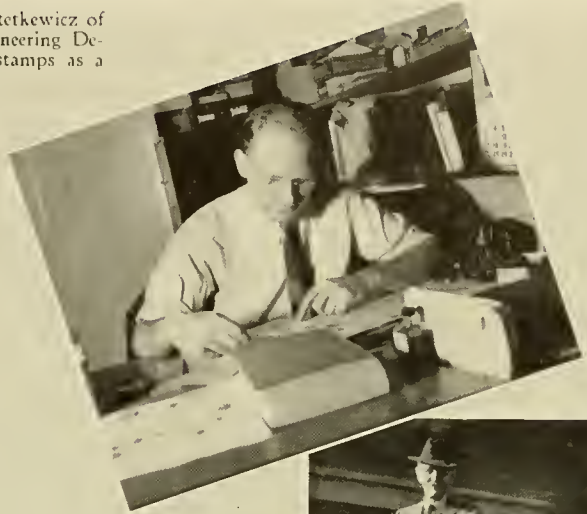

Assistant Professor Phillips reads a selection from Wordsworth.

Economics Professor Peterson traces the route of his Swedish trip last summer.

Assistant Professor Stetkewicz of the Chemical Engineering Department collects stamps as a hobby.

Professor Rice, noted for his research on bacteriology, plants a colony of bacteria.

F. E. Burpee, professor emeritus of mechanical engineering, is head of campus maintenance.

Dr. W. T. MacCreadie, associate professor in Mathematics takes a few pre-season swings with his new set of clubs.

Professor C. H. Richardson explains a theory of statistics to a mathematics class.

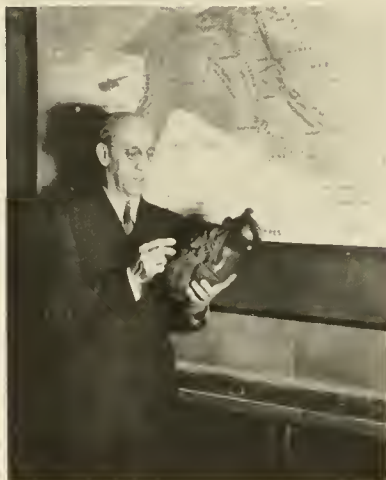

Professor Simpson of the physics department measures the wave length of light with the Fresnel Bi-Prism.

Professors of mechanical engineering, Anthony, Garman and Kunkle examine plans for the new wing to the Engineering building.

Miss Mildred Sears, secretarial instructor, gives a time test to her shorthand class.

Religion Professor Bond interprets the symbolization of a Chinese Buddha.

Botany Professor Eyster, prominent for his experiments in botanical genetics, pollinates double marigolds.

L. F. Iyarger, Jr., Director of Admissions and alumni secretary, takes some moving pictures of the campus.

The Honorable John Warren Davis of Trenton, New Jersey, is a retired Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit.

Advisor to Cap and Dagger, English Professor Smith solders a wire on the set of "High Tor."

R. R. Legault, associate professor of chemistry, illustrates the principle underlying thermostatic control.

Dr. F. G. Ballentine, professor of Latin and Greek, relaxes with a book on Roman life.

When not teaching a mathematics class, Assistant Professor William Miller can be found fussing with his fishing equipment.

A farmer at heart Professor Matz teaches business administration and economics.

Professor Nimkoff, well known sociologist, examines the proof of his latest contribution to that field.

Blanchard Gummo — sanding a frame is part of being an art professor.

Assistant Economics Professor Cornelius has accumulated a valuable collection of antique glass.

Professor Gregory corrects a World Literature examination in collaboration with his work in the English Department.

V. A. McCrossen, assistant language professor, reads one of his books from his extensive literature collection.

English professor Stillman plays a trio with his wife and daughter.

Librarian Hayden checks over a set of reference books.

The cameraman finds Professor Heath correcting accounting problems.

Director of physical education for women, Sylvia Derr explains the theory of gymnastics by stick-figures.

German Professor Frantz finds a few minutes to read a German magazine.

History Professor Karraker takes notes on an ancient manuscript by means of a micro film.

Head of the College of Music, Professor Paul G. Stolz leads his choir.

English Professor Halline finds his greatest interest in the field of drama. Here he directs a production of the Little Theatre Guild of Lewisburg.

Teaching political science is all right, but Professor Page does not mind a little hunting when he has the time.

Paul Hightower, secretary to President Marts, takes time out for a walk with his dog, Bunny.

J. Orin Oliphant history professor

Visiting instructor in geology, Louis Peltier, operates a machine which illustrates how mountains and valleys are formed.

M. L. Drum explains the complicated transit, an instrument used by surveyors.

Edwin Stebbins of the economics department assists in the book-keeping of the Student Budget.

The proudest fathers on the campus, Social Science professors Gathings, Parker, and Johnson perambulate.

Miss Jenkins, voice instructor, leads the Girls' Glee Club.

Miss Eleanor Schooley, assistant to Dr. Rice, studies a colony of bacteria.

In addition to directing the Men's Glee Club and the Bucknell Band, Melvin Le Mon, assistant professor of music, gives lessons in the organ and piano.

Mathematics instructor Paul Benson relaxes with a game of ping-pong.

Registrar Holter inspects his first-day covers of postage stamps.

Associate Professor of Economics Biscoe prepares a tax report.

A member of the college of music, Miss Charlotte Armstrong, gives instruction in the violin.

Margaret Barnhart, dietitian, samples food in the kitchen of the Women's Dining Hall.

Enjoying their work as faculty members of the College of Music, Mr. William McRae and Mr. Harold E. Cook collaborate to play a piano duet.

Associate professor of chemistry, Bruce J. Miller explains a chemical formula.

Director of a women's quartette, Miss Melicent Melrose gives a lesson in voice.

Dr. Robert T. Oliver explains the intricacies of the laryngeal muscles of the throat to his classes in Public Speaking.

John Plant, director of physical education for men, takes candid camera shots of intramural track events.

In a room full of Chinese souvenirs, Dr. W. G. Owens, Chemistry Professor Emeritus, reads about war torn China.

The youngest faculty member, Physical Education Instructor Geil, helps the eldest, Dr. Bartol, mathematics professor emeritus, to celebrate his 92nd birthday.

A large scale map assists Miss Georg to illustrate her lecture in economic history.

Civil engineering instructors Griffith and Weeden examine a test sample of concrete from the new wing of the engineering building.

Paul Gies, professor of music, plays the viola da gamba

Miss Martha Henderson, secretary to Dean Rivenburg, adjusts the student schedule file.

Professor Gold illustrates his lecture by pointing out the sun spots to his astronomy class.

Professor of journalism L. E. Theiss writes another of his admirable books for boys.

Assistant professor of electrical engineering and drawing H. A. Shaffer illustrates his art.

Successor to the leadership of the Bucknell band Professor C. F. Stickney is an instructor of violin.

Assistant Professor Abbott takes advantage of a spare moment between his civil engineering classes to analyze chemically a sample of earth.

Dormitory counselors, selected from the outstanding men of the upper classes, are placed on each floor of the men's dormitories. They return to the University in time to greet the freshmen, and to assist them in solving the problem of adjustment to college life. Throughout the year they continue to advise and aid the freshmen both academically and socially. At intervals, scholastic reports are received stating the progress of each freshman so the adviser is aware of what help is needed by each man. On his floor, he maintains study hours and attempts to provide conditions conducive to high scholarship. All counseling and guidance, however, is presented in an informal and friendly manner in order to secure the best possible adjustment of the individual.

The Board of Publications is the executive council under which all campus publications are organized. It is composed of the Editor, Business Manager, and Faculty Adviser for each of the three campus publications: the Bucknellian, the Student Handbook, and L'Agenda. The Board determines the problems of policy for each publication, and advises each group of administrators according to the policy adopted. New staff members are chosen by the Board according to their respective merit.

The Women's Student Government Association, an organization consisting of all women students, is guided by a Senate. The Senate is composed of two representatives from each sorority and two members from the non-affiliated group. At weekly meetings, the Senate passes all laws governing women's activities at Bucknell. Such regulations as dormitory hours for each class are formulated and enforced. Any infraction of such laws is punishable by order of the Senate.

On the first Wednesday evening in each month, a W. S. G. A. meeting is held. It is presided over by the President and Dean Dyer. At this time, any new rules which have been made are announced and questions concerning regulations are answered. On many occasions, outstanding speakers from on or off the campus are presented. Through them, practical advice concerning campus problems is received.

In recent years, the Student-Faculty Congress has grown into one of the most powerful organizations on Bucknell's campus. Operating under the direction of Professor Gathings, it is made up of student and faculty representatives from the various extracurricular groups. At regular business meetings, general problems of the University are studied. Student participation is encouraged in solving such problems.

This Congress has decreased the formality which traditionally existed between the faculty and student body. In this manner, the students are given ample opportunity for self-government and, at the same time, receive sympathetic guidance in their efforts. To foster this closer relationship, the entire group frequently meets for dinner. Each representative presents the consensus of opinion from his particular group on any issue, and from these reports the final solution is determined.

This may never happen again. What's that? The duo-coronation of May Day Queens, Bernice Henry and Maxine Askey, of course! No one will ever forget this dramatic climax of the 1939 May Day program. Unfortunately, because of an unanticipated cloudburst, the ceremony was presented in the Lewisburg High School Gymnasium.

Tennis matches, the champion intramural softball game, a Push-Kart Derby, an art and a science exhibit, a musical program, and the Cap and Dagger presentation of "Holiday" combined to make one of the most eventful week-ends of the year. On Saturday evening, the Mother's Day banquet was held. Bucknellians, escorting their doting mothers, flocked to Davis Gymnasium making the banquet the largest mothers' celebration that has even been held at Bucknell.

BASEBALL

The cry of "play ball" found Coach Johnny Sitarsky and his men well prepared for the 1939 season. Enthusiasm ran high when the Bisons returned from their first six encounters with five victories. From this point on, however, the pitching staff, unfortunately limited, showed the strain of overwork. The season ended with eight wins and five losses, in spite of the fact that the hitting and defensive departments of the club were consistent throughout the season.

The highlight of the season was the trip to Cooperstown to participate in the 100th Anniversary of the founding of baseball. While there, they witnessed the unveiling of a bust of "Christy" Mathewson, Bucknell's greatest sport's figure. It was through the high regard and love for "Christy," by organized baseball, that Bucknell was invited to play against the strong St. Lawrence University team.

Christy Mathewson Memorial

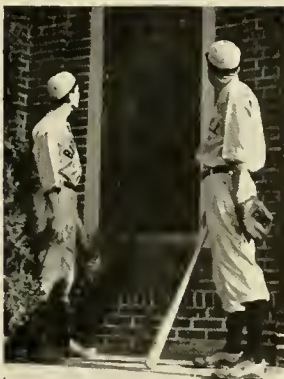

Way back in 1898, a freshman by the name of Christopher Mathewson entered Bucknell. This was the young man who later was to bring fame and honor to himself, the game he represented, and his Alma Mater. His excellent record compiled in college was but an example of the pattern he carried throughout life.

Immediately upon leaving the campus, "Christy" stepped into a starting assignment as a pitcher for the New York Giants baseball team. From the first day "Big 6", as he was commonly called, put on a baseball uniform, he rose steadily to the position of one of baseball's immortal players. He became manager of the Cincinnati Reds in 1916; entered the war in 1918; returned to coach the New York Giants; and in 1923 he was elected president of the Boston Braves, a position which he held until his death in 1925.

On June 5, 1928, through the efforts of organized baseball Bucknell dedicated to him the "Christy" Mathewson Memorial Gates which now stand at the entrance to the Memorial Stadium. Judge Kenesaw Landis, baseball's czar, was the principal speaker on that occasion.

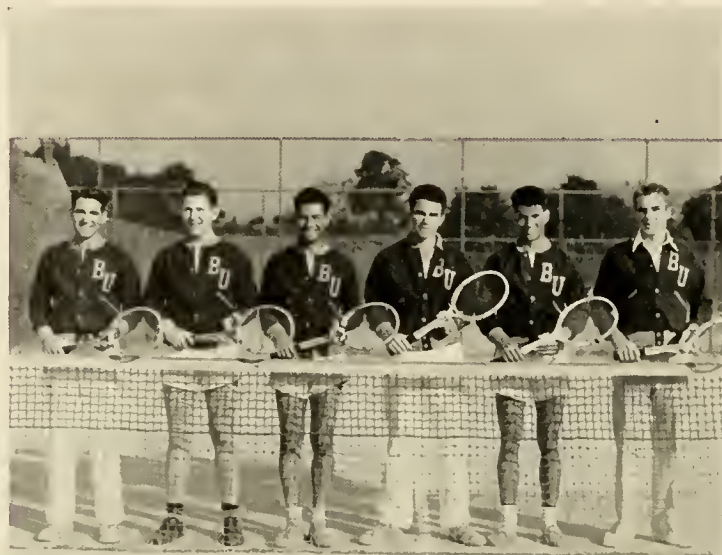

Further evidence of the high esteem with which baseball held "Christy" was demonstrated on May 27, 1939, at Cooperstown, New York. In this little hamlet, where baseball originated, and where the National Baseball Museum and Hall of Fame stand, was unveiled a bust of "Christy" Mathewson. In celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of baseball, the Bucknell University baseball team of 1939 participated in a game at Cooperstown against the St. Lawrence University team. Still more honor was given to "Christy" when the national government placed his picture on special issue of stamps commemorating the birth of baseball.

A thirteen-game schedule proved to be one of the stiffest in the past several years for the Bison tennis squad. Nevertheless, the season was better than average with ten victories and only three defeats.

George MacCall, playing in number one position, had six victorious matches to his credit, losing five. Bill Carson held the best record in singles play by winning ten matches and losing one in the number five position.

Carson and Cronk formed an invincible doubles team which swept through eight matches without a defeat. Charles Dunham is the only man who will be lost by graduation.

GOLF

This year witnessed the most successful season in the history of golf at Bucknell. And for the first time, the golf team was awarded varsity letters.

Captained by Bill Johnson, the squad was the only athletic team representing the University that remained undefeated for the season. The golfers won six matches and lost none, even though pitted against such noted teams as Temple, Franklin and Marshall, and the Pennsylvania Military College.

The best round in competition was shot by Bill Kildare, when he carded a 75 against Dickinson. Harold Evans, professional, coached the team.

VARSITY TRACK

A well balanced track team, under the eagle eye of Coach John Plant, emerged from a gruelling schedule with a record of three wins and an equal number of losses. Victories were scored over Susquehanna, Lafayette, and Dickinson. Defeat came at the hands of Franklin and Marshall, Bloomsburg S. T. C., and Juniata.

Captain-Elect Vic Cannestro proved his ability in the pole vault by capturing first place in that event at the Middle Atlantic States Meet. Richard Reider and Earl Thomas established two new Bucknell records, during the dual meets at home. Reider, in the broad jump, pushed the tape to 22' 4", and Thomas streaked over the 220 yard low hurdles in 25.8 seconds.

A strong team is in hopes for the 1940 season with only Captain Eyer, Reider, and Ward graduating.

INTRA-MURAL TEAM WINNERS

Softball and track rang down the curtain for another year of Bucknell intramurals. The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity was forced to win the last two out of a three game series from Delta Sigma before gaining possession of the softball cup. Kappa Sigma added the track championship to their yearly total and thus clinched the All-Year Championship Intramural Award.

March 21, the first day of spring, is always a welcome date on the campus of Bucknell. This day inaugurates the finest and most enjoyable session of the intramural calendar. With its advent, the outdoors calls many participants to the tennis courts, golf course, track, baseball diamond, and other scenes of competition.

Among the minor sports, we find handball, badminton, trap shooting, archery, foul shooting, horseshoes, and shuffleboard occupying a prominent position. The competition in these events grows keener every year as more and more contestants enter, indicating a growing interest in individual sports. The path of the champion in any of these events is a hard one; the ability to remain as such for more than one year is rare. To the winner and runner-up, of each activity, is awarded gold and silver medals in recognition of their efforts and achievement.

Softball creates the greatest enthusiasm and interest as evidenced by the large number of players taking part and the attendance of students who wish to follow their favorite team. North Field provides the setting for the thirteen fraternal organizations, which make up two separate leagues. Four games may be played simultaneously on these grounds which fall within the shadow of Davis Gymnasium. Deep rivalry is the keynote when the Greek brothers clash and the outcome is never predictable.

The 1939 softball season was no exception to the rule of good playing and close scores. Three teams tied for second place in the league which was won by Phi Kappa Psi. Sigma Chi finally took undisputed possession of second place. In League 2, the S. A. E. and Delta Sigma men emerged in one-two order respectively, after narrowly escaping defeat in several games. The four above-mentioned teams met in the semi-finals with the result that the S. A. E. and Delta Sigma teams again came out victorious. Three final games were necessary before the S. A. E. boys proved their superiority and walked off with the softball cup.

The intramural track call was answered by a large throng of athletes. The meet was featured by the establishment of three new all-time intramural records. Kappa Sigma was an easy winner of this cup through their ability to win nine of the fifteen events. It is deserving to mention that one member of this fraternity, Earl Thomas, '42, won four separate events.

The intramural golf tournament, held on the University nine-hole course, was captured by Bill Johnson, '41. An increasing number of students yearly are taking advantage of the possibilities of improving their game. Rolling fairways, smooth greens, and the remodeled club house, combine to make this sport one of the most enjoyable on the Bucknell program.

Wishing to follow more closely their motto of "athletic participation for all," the W. A. A. Board initiated an interclass baseball series in place of the former inter-sorority competition. The series closed with the sophomore class, repeating their victory of last fall in volley ball. The series was notable for the hitting of Eleanor Bendell, '41 and the pitching of Marion Breunig, '41.

In the final round of the Singles Tennis Tournament Edith Baker, '39, defeated Mary Ellen Oesterle, '42, by the score of 6-2, 6-3 to annex the Singles crown. In the Doubles, Betty Boyd, '40 and "JO" Dodson '42 defeated Margaret Bortz, '40 and Gertrude Skublicki, '39.

To comply with the growing popularity of the sport, the W. A. A. Board for the first time sponsored an archery tournament. Its success was proved by the number of girls entering the competition. Marion Weinberger, '42, won the championship.

Commencement

The 89th annual Commencement of Bucknell University was held on June 12 when 248 students received diplomas in the Davis Gymnasium. At this graduation, the largest in the history of Bucknell, three prominent educators and a social worker received honorary degrees. Three of the men were Bucknell alumni: Francis B. Haas, president of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College; Edwin C. Aubrey, professor of Christian theology and ethics at the University of Chicago; and Stanley P. Davies, executive director of the Community Service Society of New York. Chester P. Higby, professor of history at the University of Wisconsin, also received an honorary degree. Twenty-three Master's degrees were bestowed, while eighteen students graduated with honors.

Recipients of honorary degrees

An impressive procession of the graduates and professors from the Vaughan Literature Building along the crest of the hill to the gymnasium preceded the exercise.

The gymnasium was beautifully decorated as a cyclorama with long blue drapes forming a background for the rostrum on the eastern side of the gym. Window and panel effects gave the appearance of a Cathedral; an impressive graduation setting.

Instead of the traditional Commencement address, Bucknell initiated a completely new idea, that of a panel discussion. Aubrey, Davies, and Higby answered questions asked by President Marts. In his reply to President Marts' question, "How can the college student acquire a knowledge and skill in human relations?" Stanley P. Davies emphasized the necessity of evaluating people you meet as individuals in their own right rather than placing them in general classifications. Chester P. Higby advised post-college students to continue their education by reading intelligently, while Edwin C. Aubrey urged the necessity for a sound philosophy of life.

Journey's end; school's beginning

Begins

Although each new term does not officially begin until convocation, college actually has started several weeks before. The freshman class arrives a week early for freshman week. The upper classmen, however, are soon to follow. The express men work incessantly delivering load after load of baggage. Bills must be settled and books procured. Friends gather to reminisce, classes start, then rushing week begins. But a tradition of every college is convocation which formally opens the semester. Here, the president and faculty don their official robes to welcome the student body at the start of a new year.

FRATERNITY ACTIVITIES

Refreshments at a fraternity house dance

At Bucknell, two local and nine national Greek letter organizations represent the assimilation of the men students into college life. The fraternity house forms a nucleus to all social life on the campus in creating a second home for its members.

In the beginning of each school year, a week of intensive rushing is held. This rush week aids the freshman in pledging the group with which he finds himself most compatible. Dinner and luncheon dates, smokers and entertainments are arranged. For that week, the best points of each house, inside and out, are exhibited. Freshmen, although they eat with their chosen fraternity, remain in the dormitories until their sophomore year. After the smoke is cleared, almost every new student boasts a pledge pin. Versatility marks the life of a pledge. He rakes leaves in the fall, shovels snow in the winter, primes lawns in the spring, and in short is a Jack-of-all-trades. In turn, the group makes an effort to keep the yearling in line, academically, socially, and athletically.

The Interfraternity Council, composed of two men from each fraternity and two faculty members, attempts to formulate rules and regulations to enable the eleven groups to live homogeneously. During rushing, especially, some procedure must be followed. The Council accomplishes this purpose. During the year, it serves as intermediary between faculty and students, creating less formal relations between them. Each season ushers in a heated sports competition between fraternities. The goal in view is the intramural athletic trophy offered by the Council.

The fraternity is a starting point, but the end it achieves goes much further than the four academic years. The group becomes a symbol to the alumni, and in after years remains a drawing card to urge the alumni to return to visit their Alma Mater.

Patroness visit

Sorority activities are initiated each fall with the Pan-Hellenic Tea which formally introduces the freshman girls to the rushing season. During this time, the new girls are guests of the sororities at a series of open houses and planned parties.

Pan-Hellenic Council endeavors to bring about the greatest amount of equality and justice by establishing a set of rules for both fraternity women and rushers. This Council is composed of two representatives from each sorority, headed by a president. To avoid domination by any one group, the office of president rotates yearly. The Council guides the entire sorority system into an integrated unit and attempts to have each sorority feel itself a part of a whole, rather than one of six independent units. As the rushing season progresses, Pan-Hellenic acts as intermediary between the sorority and non-affiliated girls, providing any information which is not available in the Student Handbook.

The individual sorority organizes its own social program and carries it through with University cooperation. Three dances are presented by each group during a school year: the pledge dance, the winter formal, and the spring dance. Informal teas are given in the suites to provide relaxation for members during the examination period.

In the sorority program, a great deal of time is given to pledge activities. Big sisters are selected to aid the pledge in her adjustment to college life. The active chapter meets once during each week to discuss its problems and to foster high scholarship and extra-curricular activity.

According to pre-season predictions, Bucknell's football season was a question mark. This was due to the loss of ten letter men from the previous year, and a serious lack of reserves. Losing the opening game to Gettysburg proved an upset to the Bisons as they were continually on the offensive, and time after time in scoring position. At Penn State, a field goal by Co-Captain Kiick gave hope for a repeat performance of last year's victory. However, the Nittany Lions managed to score twice in the last half to win by a margin of 13-3. The Bucknell team versus Georgetown gave a large Homecoming crowd many an exciting moment. Rated as one of the best teams in the East, Georgetown found themselves on the short end of a 6-7 score late in the third quarter. The unorthodox offensive lineup of the Hoyas proved its worth, however, in the fourth quarter to produce the winning touchdown. Incidentally, this was the first Homecoming game in ten years that Bucknell has lost. On a rain-soaked field, the Temple Owls gave the Bisons their worst defeat of the season, 16-0. Only the outstanding defensive play of Pegg and Funair prevented a higher score. On Thanksgiving day, the Bisons were defeated by George Washington 7-6. This game, the last of the season, marked the end of collegiate football for eight seniors on the Bucknell team.

After the game

Undoubtedly the most significant football game of the year for Bucknell is that with Pennsylvania State College. The two colleges have been competing against each other since 1887, making the annual contest an established tradition. Of the twenty-seven games played, Bucknell has won ten.

For no other game is such college spirit and enthusiasm evident. All who possibly can manage, make the trip to State College. the band never struts with more pride, the cheer leaders never cheer with more vigor, and the team never fights with more determination. Yet this is one traditional college football game in which competition remains sincerely friendly. Whether Bucknell or Penn State wins — and it was Penn State this year — everyone has a good time.

Homecoming - - -

Returning Alumni are posted according to their classes

On October 19, hundreds of Bucknell alumni returned to Lewisburg for the annual Homecoming celebration which has now become a classic tradition on the campus.

The week-end, featuring many varied activities, began with an enthusiastic pep rally Friday night and came to a climax Saturday with the combination of a parade, football game, banquet, and dance.

The second annual Homecoming parade was an impressive stream of floats from various local merchants and fraternities. More than a dozen bands from surrounding communities marched between the floats, while the 103rd cavalry brought up the rear. Prizes for the best entrants were awarded by judges who were located on a reviewing stand opposite Bucknell Hall. The Phi Gamma Delta float, which portrayed the Figi savages cooking a tasty Georgetown player, was chosen the best in the fraternity contest. Many reported this parade to be the biggest and best in Bucknell's history.

Saturday afternoon the gala week-end continued as the Bucknell football squad faced an undefeated Georgetown team in a colorful game before a huge crowd in the Bucknell stands. Making a striking appearance between the halves, the Bucknell band played for the last time under the direction of Mel Le Mon.

In the evening, the Bucknell Men's Glee Club gave a concert at the annual Alumni Banquet in the Women's Dining Hall. President Marts addressed a word of welcome to the alumni. The dinner was followed by the annual dance held in the Davis Gymnasium.

Working Our Way Through College

Sewing

Through University assistance and individual initiative, Bucknellians find ample opportunity to work their way, partially or wholly, through college. Those who have need for such help, find the democratic spirit at Bucknell sympathetic with their endeavors.

Scholarships are open to anyone with an average of eighty per cent or over, provided that the student proves a genuine need for aid. Attached to most of these scholarships are workships, whereby the student being financially aided is obliged to work in conjunction with a professor. This is entered upon the student's record and included in recommendation for a later position. Other phases of University assistance are jobs in both the men's and women's dining halls, and as dormitory receptionists and counsellors. Some students, specializing in particular subjects, find invaluable experience serving as tutors and as laboratory, library, and gym assistants.

The dissimilar personalities at Bucknell make for many forms of individual initiative. Besides the usual means of earning money such as selling candy and cigarettes, and delivering daily papers, many persons display remarkable ingenuity in creating jobs for themselves. Three students, for example, organized a radio program which was presented weekly over a local station. Two girls became amateur beauticians, offering the coeds beauty treatments right at the time and at the place when repairs were necessary.

Men and women who work their way through college find their efforts not a hardship as one might suppose, but on the contrary, a definite asset in helping them to realize what college can really mean. At Bucknell, in particular, lack of social barriers and attitudes makes self-help a thing accepted and admired.

VARSITY DEBATING

Seated—Smith, Oliver, McKenna, Brembeck, Lindberg

To a greater extent than ever before, the Varsity Intercollegiate Debating Team of Bucknell has gone co-educational. Under the leadership of the two team managers: Dorothy Fenton for the women, and Raymond Underwood for the men, the forensic organizations have co-operated and combined their efforts. Another innovation for debating at Bucknell was the introduction of many short trips in the place of a few more extended ones. This gave more of the debaters the opportunity to participate in intercollegiate competition.

Bucknell pioneered a new step in radio debating when the first televised debate in history was given by a Bucknell team in opposition to the Columbia University debate squad before the iconoscope camera of the National Broadcasting Company. This is a revolutionary step in informal debating — debating with a modern touch. Public Relations manager, John J. McKenna, Jr., was responsible for the arrangements.

Closely connected with the debate squad is the Forensic Council. Guided by Doris Loos, president, the Forensic Council clears and integrates speech activities on the campus. The Student Speakers Bureau supplies speakers on any subject upon request.

Cap and Dagger, campus thespian society, serves as a laboratory of training for all lines of dramatic activity. The organization is advised by the Bucknell chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic honorary, in producing five plays during the school year. Although many members of the faculty are patrons of the organization, C. Willard Smith is the only active non-student. Each completed play shows undergraduate ability manifested not only in the acting department, but in directing, costumes, makeup, lighting, sets, publicity, and sound effects, as well.

WE PUT ON

When Bucknell's Cap and Dagger determined to produce "High Tor," it accepted a tremendous challenge. Written by Maxwell Anderson, this play had been presented to a Broadway audience over 170 times. Aside from its established reputation, the problems of production were numerous. For instance, a steam shovel, the keynote of "High Tor," actually had to work. Unusual lighting effects, which were required, proved to be just as difficult.

The theme of "High Tor" is the last stand of Nature against the evils of civilization. This demanded fantasy combined with realism and, at the same time, the creation of an atmosphere of a mountain top, a task of professional proportions.

As a dramatic production, "High Tor" was a definite advance in the history of Cap and Dagger. From the standpoint of lighting and sets, especially, it was a notable achievement.

With rehearsals, the tedious side of production begins.

The Circulation Department at Work

Drawing a Proof of a Finished Page

The distribution of the college newspaper every Thursday afternoon is as certain to Bucknellians as the arrival of their eight o'clock class every Monday morning. Just how it is possible for them to read the news with such consistent regularity is seldom considered. Oh, there is some confused notion of reporters batting out copy. Any piece of copy, however, passes through a number of hands, and changes physical form several times before it appears as the finished paper—the Bucknellian.

All of the work is entirely voluntary, and completely managed by students. The basis of the staff is a reporting group of approximately seventy students. These students automatically become reporters when they enter the beginners course in Journalism. Each student is given a weekly assignment with a dead-line which must be met. The news editor, William Crum, and his assistant read and edit the material submitted. Acceptable copy is then set up on the linotype machine. The managing editor, Hal Kierce, has already prepared sample layouts for the paper.

Together Ward Kelly, business manager, and James Hind, advertising manager, solicit and collect the advertising. The business manager is also in charge of the financial transactions made by the paper.

However, the most important worker on the Bucknellian is James Duchine, the editor. He must supervise each step in the process of publication. Every bit of copy ordinarily passes through his hands before it can be turned over to the linotype operator who sets the material in type. Only when the paper has come off the press and received Jimmy's stamp of approval, is it allowed to be circulated among the students.

Every Thursday, Bucknell students troop down to the Baptist Church for the weekly Chapel exercises. It is the only time that the student body gathers together for an inspirational program. President Marts returns to the campus for every program and contributes his share to the exercises which give a real depth and meaning to college life. The Chapel program has become an honored tradition at Bucknell; every Thursday finds the church well filled. The programs are carefully planned and excellent speakers are chosen. This year, Chapel guests included among others: the famous Irving Berlin; Margaret Slattery, author and lecturer; Dr. Daniel Polling, Pastor of the Baptist Church in Philadelphia; and the President of Muhlenberg College.

This year, President Marts sponsored a "Religion in Life Week" which was planned to bring a real challenge of life directly before the student body. Each organization and individual spent the week in making an inventory of his purpose and subsequent accomplishments in life. Special speakers were guests of the college to guide the students in forming a superior pattern of living. The program, lasting the entire week, included lectures, bull sessions in the dormitories and fraternity houses, general forums, and personal conferences. The week was even more successful and gratifying to its instigators than had been expected.

Known throughout the country as one of the finest collegiate musical organizations of its kind, Bucknell's Band and Drum and Bugle Corps is the pride of the entire campus. Managed by Jack Arnold and directed by Melvin Le Mon, the band is led by the unique combination of three drum majors. A committee, headed by Professor Le Mon selected Jane Colteryahn and Hope Reeves as drum majorettes with Robert Northrup and Peter Tras alternating as drum majors. The organization not only personified the spirit of Bucknell on the campus, but it also travels to several off-campus football engagements.

Yearly tryouts are held to fill vacancies in the band. The members are selected with reference to talent and personality. During the first year, a course of training is held for the freshman women in order that they will be prepared to fill the vacancies caused by graduating seniors in the Drum and Bugle Corps. Jack Arnold heads this group and directs the instruction.

Having completed one of the most successful seasons of the Band, Professor Le Mon has resigned as director. A great deal of this organization's success has been due to his untiring efforts. Next season the Band will be under the able leadership of Professor Stickney, whose proven ability makes him more than eligible for this position.

The Mixed Chorus

The Mixed Chorus, consisting of approximately 120 members, is unusual in the fact that it gives four major oratorios during the year. This year, it has presented "The Messiah" by Handel, the "St. Cecelia Mass" by Gounod, "Hora Novissima" by Parker, and the commencement oratorio, Haddyn's "Theresian Mass." The Chorus is under the direction of Professor Paul G. Stolz, assisted by Miss Grace Jenkins.

The Melrose Quartette, under the direction of Miss Melicent Melrose, usually sings in conjunction with the Girls' Glee Club, and occasionally gives recitals around school and in nearby communities.

The Girls' Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Grace Jenkins, gives several concerts a year. They present a Spring Concert and participate in the May Day Festival. Special choruses within the group sing in neighboring towns and cities throughout the year. The club is made up of approximately eighty voices which are chosen from the tryouts for the Mixed Chorus.

Girls Glee Club

The String Trio, composed of Professor Stickney, Professor McRae, and Malcolm Ferentz, plays for engagements on and off the campus.

Symphony Orchestra

The Symphony Orchestra was reorganized on the campus this year. It is composed entirely of students and is one of the most popular musical organizations. The orchestra accompanies the Mixed Chorus, plays in Chapel, and gives a formal concert of its own in May.

The Men's Glee Club traveled through eight states this year on its seventh annual concert tour. The organization, consisting of seventy voices, is directed by Melvin Le Mon and managed by John Kingsbury. Soloists included Philip Roy, tenor; Walter Babbitt, pianist; John Tyson, bass; and Earl Thomas, baritone. The 1940 repertoire was high-lighted by an Irving Berlin medley arranged by Professor Le Mon and sung by special permission of the composer.

The club traveled eight days in cruiser buses and gave eighteen concerts in schools, churches, and clubs. The tour was climaxed with a broadcast from Newark, New Jersey, over a national station. After many of the appearances, the men were entertained by receptions or dances.

The purpose of these annual Glee Club tours is to introduce Bucknell to prospective students and parents, and to give the club the practical poise and technique that can be obtained only by actual experience on a trip of this kind.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Supervising a kindergarten group at the Baptist Church

Minersville Inquiry

On Bucknell's campus, one of the most active organizations is the Christian Association. The Student Handbook, published each year for the convenience of freshmen and upperclassmen, is one of its most important services. It is completely self-supporting, printing 1400 copies in 1939. Especially is the Handbook essential for new students, since it provides a great deal of valuable information concerning Bucknell.

The Christian Association organizes and directs the program for both Mother's and Father's Day, both of which are becoming more and more popular each year. The Father's Week-end Committee was headed by co-chairman Helen Balbirnie and Walter Babbitt. The subordinate committees for the week-end included almost all of the Association's members who co-operated to make one of the most successful events of its kind ever to be held at Bucknell.

The C. A. is intensely interested in Inter-racial problems. Bucknellians participate in various exchange social activities with the students of Howard University. The Inter-faith group and the War and Peace Committee have also been active during the year. Under the Intercollegiate and World Fellowship Committee, a special drive is held each year to gain funds enabling two students to attend Judson College in Korea. Various intercollegiate conferences are attended throughout the year by those students who are interested.

The Community Service Program is another phase of the C. A. organization. This includes the direction of children's groups such

George Boner — chalking up another victory

Bucknell's boxing team disproved the old saying, "They never come back," when they gained possession of the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Conference cup for the second consecutive year. This year's tournament was again held in the Davis Gymnasium. Individual conference champions were Captain Funair, 175 pounds; Harold Kierce, 127 pounds; and Cy Trecartin, 155 pounds. Emile Hemming, 165 pounds; and George Boner, heavyweight, also survived the elimination bouts and added the remaining necessary points as runners-up.

The team's average for the season was .500, with three wins, three losses, and one tie. The teams which the Bucknell squad was pitted against were Rutgers, Army, C. C. N. Y., Temple, West Virginia, Michigan State, and Western Maryland.

Action

The Orange and Blue basketball squad took to the court this year with an abundance of good material, numbering them only one senior, Captain George Kiick. After winning nine of their first ten games, injuries and over-confidence took their toll and caused the Bisons to lose five games straight.

Coach Musser

Competing for the first year in the Eastern Pennsylvania Basketball League, Bucknell immediately jumped into the league lead with three early wins. After a hectic see-saw league schedule, which saw the lead held by four different teams throughout the season, the Bisons finally wound up in a tie for third place. Franklin and Marshall won the coveted crown.

Baker, Snyder, Longaker, and Buzas proved to be the main scoring threats and constantly kept the Orange and Blue running. Of particular note is the victory over Penn State. This feat marked the first time in a number of years that a Bucknell basketball team defeated a Penn State quintet.

MEN'S WINTER INTRAMURALS

Action in the ring

This year's intramural boxing bouts were no disappointment to those who have witnessed previous exhibitions. A large number of hopefuls, representing every fraternal organization on the campus, went into the fray with the old "do-or-die" spirit. Emile Hemming was the only champion from last year, who managed to snare another crown. The cup was won by Kappa Sigma by virtue of three champions and two runners-up. Bayless, Allison, Hoffman, Kordish, and Hemming later continued their boxing careers by being promoted to varsity squad.

Sigma Chi—champion basketball team

Intramural basketball was a series of highly competitive games before the final champion team was declared. This cup was taken by Sigma Chi who was forced to the limit in the final payoffs with Lambda Chi Alpha. Increased student attendance throughout the season made this sport the scene of spirited but friendly rivalry.

Under the direction of Ted Wilkinson and Steve Caporaletti, intramural winter managers, the above events were run off in an orderly and timely fashion. These men represent the Intramural Council and are responsible for schedule making, tournament playing, and conduct. Having served in the capacity of assistant managers last year, they were well qualified to carry through the intramural program in an efficient manner.

The Women's Athletic Association was established to administer sports activities that would lead to a wholesome form of living among the Bucknell women. The organization has complete charge of directing all sports activities. W. A. A. has recently become a member of the National Amateur Athletic Federation.

Membership in the Association is limited to women students who have earned fifty points through participation in W. A. A. activities. This year, the organization was guided by Virginia Danby, president, and her assistants: Margaret Bortz, vice-president, and Margaret Symington, treasurer. The athletic activities are under the direction of seasonal managers.

Continuing the policy of inter-class competition in place of inter-sorority competition, the basketball tournament was won by the Junior Class. Their victory definitely established the Junior Class as intramural champions since they had already won the baseball and volleyball series.

OUTSTANDING VISITORS

Irving Berlin, one of the most popular of the chapel speakers

Many nationally-known figures have come to the campus during the past year for the cultural enjoyment of Bucknelians. The Artist Course has presented musical as well as dramatic talent. Our own Cap and Dagger cooperates each year with the Artist Course by producing a Shakespearian play. The leading role is interpreted by a guest artist, often a former Bucknelian, while the supporting cast is created by Cap and Dagger members.

The Lecture Course brings various speakers to the campus to give practical information or merely to amuse with novel talks. Each week President Marts invites to our chapel a speaker who is able to offer something constructive to the students. These speakers provide an excellent opportunity for the highest type of lectures not usually available to the average college student. On some occasions, the students are allowed the privilege of meeting the visitors at informal discussions.

The students at Bucknell are very fortunate in having such influences to aid them in shaping their careers. Through their speakers, the ultimate value of the "Bucknell Way of Life" is realized.

Final inspection

In the fall of this year, the 50th L'Agenda staff began work with unusual enthusiasm. There were plans to create an entirely different type of book—a L'Agenda that was new and different. The more formal and stilted literary style was abandoned in favor of the stream-lined photographic version. All year the staff worked to produce a L'Agenda that would meet their requirements, doing everything from taking an aerial picture of the campus to traveling to New York City to interview the trustees.

The staff was coordinated under the direction of John Trauger, editor, and Kay Webb, business manager. To facilitate the progress of the book, the material was divided into units with a chairman heading each division. Whether or not the staff succeeded, it is left to the reader to judge.

A college yearbook often neglects the most important side of college life, that of going to classes. L'Agenda, wishing to summarize accurately all activities of the year, presents a pictorial review of students engaged in academic pursuits.

Classes are held in ten different buildings scattered over the campus. In these buildings, instruction in everything from Greek to engineering is offered. Every morning, a little before eight, a stream of students trudges up the hill to begin the routine of the day.

A phase of Personal Hygiene

The freshman and sophomore years, called the Lower Division, are devoted to a general survey of cultural subjects. This gives the student a solid foundation for specialization in the Upper Division. Some degrees, such as engineering, however, immediately plunge the student into his field of concentration.

Classroom work is supplanted by various honorary organizations which promote greater interest and encourage individual achievement in the different fields. Such organizations lend more opportunity for practical application of what has already been theoretically learned.

STUDENT CAMPUS CLUB

Providing for the social life of non-affiliated Bucknellians, the Student Campus Club was organized ten years ago. Each year a dance and a series of open houses are held. The organization has become increasingly popular in the last few years and is destined to play an increasingly important part in the social and sport life on the campus.

DELTA PHI ALPHA

Delta Phi Alpha was founded with the idea of promoting the study of German culture, ideals, and folklore. An annual field trip is conducted with the purpose of surveying nearby Germanic cultures. Last year the honorary visited Doylestown, Pennsburg, and surrounding areas. As an incentive toward a greater effort in the study of the German language, a book was awarded to that member who has made the most notable advance in the field.

PHI ETA SIGMA

Since its founding in 1939, Phi Eta Sigma, men's freshman honorary, has had an active history. This year, in collaboration with Dr. Sutherland, the chapter's project was counseling freshmen in an effort to bring about smoother adjustment to college itself as well as improved scholarship. The fraternity aims for high ideals, intellectually and morally.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

Alpha Lambda Delta is a freshman women's honorary which promotes higher standards of learning among freshmen. In collaboration with the Women's Scholarship Committee, it sponsored a tutoring program for those who needed the assistance. Each year new members are brought into the organization at a Tapping Service in chapel.

KAPPA DELTA EPSILON

This yearling women's educational fraternity has taken admirable strides in its endeavor to aid the intellectual advancement of its members as well as Bucknell's general educational program. Only those upperclass women are eligible to become members who have had at least two education courses, and who have achieved the required scholastic average during their college career.

KAPPA PHI KAPPA

Kappa Phi Kappa, men's professional education fraternity, promotes education by encouraging the study of its principles and problems. The regular meetings are characterized by guest speakers and by group discussion of educational papers prepared by members. The outstanding event of the year is a banquet with its feminine counterpart, Kappa Delta Epsilon, women's education honorary.

Mu Phi Epsilon, honorary women's music fraternity, through its commendable concerts has given Bucknell students opportunities throughout the year to appreciate good music. Each year it sponsors the Girls' Inter-fraternity Song Contest. As a special feature this year, it joined with the men's honorary music fraternity in presenting a recital consisting of all ensemble work. Prospective members must have junior rating and be scholastically among the upper fourth of all music students.

This organization's eminent dual purpose — the mastery of written expression and the encouragement of worthwhile reading — is furthered at monthly meetings by a program committee which presents for criticism favorite authors or original compositions of members. For the second consecutive year, Sigma Tau Delta sponsored a distinguished "movie on the hill."

PI DELTA EPSILON

This honorary journalistic fraternity fosters journalistic activities on the campus. To become a member one must have a major editorship on one of the three college publications L' Agenda, Bucknellian, or the C. A. Handbook; or have worked two years on one. Thirteen new members were initiated last fall. At that time a representative was also sent to the National Convention held at Richmond, Virginia.

PHI SIGMA

Phi Sigma, honorary biology fraternity, was brought to this campus to further interest in the field of biology. The group is unique because it is the only one on the campus that requires its prospective members to work on a biological research problem under the supervision of the department before they can be initiated.

ALPHA CHI SIGMA

Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemistry fraternity, was organized to encourage and council those students ambitious to become chemists. Guided by Dr. Miller and Dr. Stetkewicz, the fraternity holds regular meetings. At these meetings, papers prepared by students are read. Several times a year, noted men from the chemistry field give informal talks to the group.

C. E. A.

Scholarship, leadership, and service are the three criteria for membership in C. E. A., senior honorary for women. The outstanding service this year was the sponsorship of a formal banquet at which fifteen girls, selected proportionately from the junior, sophomore, and freshman classes, were recognized for their superior scholarship. Another new activity this past year was an investigation of Pan-Hellenic for the purpose of strengthening the existing organization. It also planned Moving-Up Day, that long anticipated day when each class moves a step higher and receives the accompanying privileges.

Unique in the fact that there are no dues, Sigma Alpha Kappa is proud of having as members President Marts, Professor Bruce Miller, and Mr. Paul Hightower. It is composed of all men working in the seminary kitchen. The purpose of this group is to strengthen the bonds of friendship and cooperation among its members.

"B" CLUB

The "B" club includes in its membership every winner of a varsity letter and is designed to bring recognition to those men who have participated in varsity competition. The organization has as its aim the promotion and recognition of sportsmanship in any field of endeavor. Each spring a committee decides who has met the requirements for his varsity "B" in each sport of the year.

A decided lack of reserve material may be traced as the cause of this year's freshman gridiron team tasting defeat at the hands of the Penn State, Temple, and Army yearlings. However weak in number they may have been, no opponent was able to completely outrun and outclass the lads from Bucknell. Coach John Sitarsky developed several very good men who may be counted upon to make strong bids toward filling the many gaps which graduation will cause in this year's varsity squad.

That the Baby Bisons enjoyed a successful basketball season may be evidenced by their taking undisputed second place in the Eastern Pennsylvania Basketball League. The season's total shows seven victories for Coach Sitarsky's men with four losses. In League competition, only two games saw the freshmen bow in defeat; both of these coming at the hands of the Scranton University J-V team, League champions. The Penn State Frosh also defeated the freshmen twice.

It's the woman who pays—for a change!

House mother for the dorm

One of the outstanding events on Bucknell's social calendar is the annual Co-Ed Night sponsored by the Women's Student Government Association. On this occasion the men are entertained by the women at a Leap Year Hop. This dance is preceded by a dinner given in the Women's Dining Hall.

Co-Ed Night finds the women calling for their dates and paying the entire expense of the evening. In some cases, the girls even supply boutonnieres for their guests.

For the first time, this year a Leap Year King was chosen from a list of candidates prepared by the Senate. At the appointed time, the King was crowned by Miss Sylvia Derr, director of Women's Physical Education. Much to the delight of the male guests, a number of "cut dances" were held by the dance committee. For one night the usual procedure is reversed to show the women's viewpoint of how a date should be treated.

FRESHMAN YEAR

Introducing the Freshmen

Arriving on campus, the freshmen found themselves hustled into a week of orientation. At once, they found with surprise that the varied activities left them no time to be lonely or bewildered. There were health examinations and placement tests, dances and social hours, lectures and conferences, all crowded into a few days. By the time the upperclassmen had returned to school, the freshmen already felt themselves a part of Bucknell.

The return of the upperclassmen served as a signal for the beginning of a siege of hazing. The uniform of a well-dressed freshman became the dink, a large name sign, a black tie, and black socks. Refractors of such rules were dealt with by a grim "senior" tribunal which gave out appropriate punishment. The climax was the Freshman-Sophomore fight. In the first contest, the Freshmen had to seize a dink from the top of a greased pole, which was guarded by the Sophomores. The second was a tug-o'-war with a dousing from the fire hose as a reward to the losers. By winning both these battles, the Freshmen were permitted to discard their dinks and black socks.

Following the men's hazing period, the young women were introduced to "Hell Week." The sophomore class formulated laws which, for three days, had to be obeyed by all the girls in the freshman class. In the place of the usual rose nail polish, a livid green was in order. Green eye shadow was worn both above and below the eyes, lipstick, rouge, and powder being taboo. The girls wore black and white lisle stockings, coats backward, and carried books in pillow cases. Large brown paper bags tied by green ribbon concealed curling locks and completed an extremely unbecoming appearance. Sudden shyness was not considered, in view of the planned mass marches and group singing of the Alma Mater upon request. With Homecoming, the girls good-naturedly forgot their "Hell Week" to welcome the returning alumnae.

The freshman year is one of the most enjoyable because, immediately being accepted as part of the school, the yearlings have full opportunity to appreciate all that Bucknell has to offer.

SOPHOMORE YEAR

The Cotillion

The Class of '42, now Sophomore, voted into office Herbert Heaney, president; William Carson, vice-president; Anne Dewees, secretary; Ethel Jaegle, treasurer.

In the annual pugilistic encounter between Freshmen and Sophomores, the latter went down to an inglorious defeat in the pouring rain, while spectators were notably absent. Other "important" facts about the class were not disappointing. Out of the entire school, Anne Randle, a blonde Wisconsinian, was voted Bucknell Beauty Queen, and entered, photographically speaking, into competition with women from colleges all over the country to determine the All-American Campus Queen for Paramount Motion Picture Studios.

Social spotlight for the Sophomores was focused on Cotillion, the annual dance of the second-year class. Les Brown's orchestra was engaged, since he had proved to be an attraction at several of the eastern college proms. Social Adviser for the class was Instructor of English, Professor Stillman.

JUNIOR YEAR

The Junior Class elections revealed the fact that Jack McQuillen was president; John Kingsbury, vice-president; Helen Roberts, secretary; and Lucille Rasmussen, treasurer.

"Historians," and the more aggressive men of the class will tell you ruefully that their class was the last to have the dubious distinction of painting numerals on the already well-decorated water tower.

The year's big social function for the class as a whole came with the Junior Prom. For this affair, which was held in Davis Gymnasium, Will Osborne, well-known radio and hotel band, provided the music. His specialty is "sweet" music, and it was a choice that met with approval. The high point of the evening came with the selection by band leader Osborne of the Prom Queen. Out of a group of twenty Junior girls, selected from all the campus social organizations, Peggy Raine, diminutive brown-haired co-ed, was chosen. She was formerly acclaimed and presented with a huge armful of American Beauty roses.

Ball

Undoubtedly a Bucknellian feels more pride when he arrives at his senior year than at any other time in his college career. After three years of preparation, at last the glory of being at the top is realized! And with this same spirit, the Class of '40 began its senior year by electing Don Walker as President, Rae-Louise Shultz as Vice-President, Martha Clayton as Secretary, and Glenn Eshelman as Treasurer.

The social season of the senior year was climaxed with the Senior Ball. To the delight of all Bucknellians, Glenn Miller was secured to provide the music.

As the year ended, the class was honored at the annual Senior Day. All seniors donned caps and gowns for the chapel program. Outstanding members addressed the faculty and lower classmen to summarize the work, fun, and friendships found in four years at Bucknell. And just a short time later, Commencement brought to a close the college career of 280 seniors.

THERE'S STILL ONE MORE "EXAM"

Another course required---

It's not a four year course---this is a lifetime one.

In this school the tests come daily.

It requires constant study --- application --- striving for improvement.

And, in this school you make your own report---in what you produce.

We've been attending this school a long time now---and we've been passing---with merit.

We're proud to submit the production of this issue of L'AGENDA as one of our latest "reports."

Two Hundred Six

A Word from the Editor . . .

In behalf of the staff and as editor of the 1940 L'Agenda, I wish to express my gratitude to the following organizations and individuals whose assistance and cooperation have made this book possible:

—To H. W. Holter and Donald Stillman, faculty advisers, for their unfailing patience and advice.

—To the entire Administration, especially to the Alumni Association, Publicity Department, and the Registrar's Office.

—To Don Ross, photographer; A. S. Sharp, of the Pontiac Engraving Company; G. Grant Painter, of the Williamsport Printing and Binding Company; and to G. R. Conover and E. H. Twiss, of the National Publishing Company, for their splendid handling of copy and production.

—Lastly, to the students who, by their cooperation with the staff, made it possible for us to meet an effective production schedule.

Alma Mater

Dear Bucknell, oft of thee we're thinking,
And memories fond come trooping by:
The tireless stars may cease their blinking,
But thoughts of thee shall never die.
And though the years steal swiftly o'er us,
And winter comes with biting sting,
Our hearts with youth's undaunted chorus,
Shall e'er with praise of Bucknell ring.
We burn the incense of affection,
As in the sacred fanes we meet,
While down the aisles of recollection,
Come thronging forms we love to meet,
And though life's bitter storm sweep o'er us,
And pleasures bide on fleeting wing,
Our hearts shall blend in loving chorus,
When Alma Mater's praise we sing.
To thee we swear our proud allegiance,
Thy loyal sons are we, and true.
Nor time, nor tide, nor fortune's pageants,
Shall daunt the Orange and the Blue.
Then with thy glory e'er before us,
Our loving tribute we will sing,
And once again in hearty chorus,
Thy praise, dear Bucknell, we will sing.

SAMUEL SEARS MERRIMAN, '86
